RECOGNITION OF THE PLAGUE WORKERS' SERVICES.

The following letter signed " Fairplay " appears in the Western Morning News of the 10th

December: I noticed in your issue of the 7th justant a very interesting account of the behaviour of the S.L.I. and R.E. during the recent spidemic in Hongkong; but why are the R.A. and the medical officers left out ?

In not one of the many newspapers that have ireferred to the plague bave I seen any mention made of the behaviour of the dectors, whether naval, military, or civilian, during this trying epidemic; in fact, so notoriously has this been the case that one is naturally tempted to ask whether there was not some serious re son for this repeated omission of any reference to their soudnet. I happen to have heard from several. dir of sources that the conduct of all the members of the medical profession during the plague was beyond all praise; perhaps for this reason ! they are to have none, as if cold out he adequately done! Or, again, perhaps what is looked on as being the utmost herosia when attempted by laymen, and as such is considered worthy of being placed on record and rewarded by nothing less than the presentation of gold and silver to dale, silver plate, ours, shie. le. &c., &c., is considered only the daily routine daty the members of the medical profession.

I think that the grant of one year's service ! (i.e. one year to count as two fewards coluntary retirement) to the naval and military officers, and a bandsome donceur from the Colonial funda. the doctors would not only be a graceful way recognising their recent invaluable bervices, but also an not of the barest justice.
